

Siobhán Callaghan

Siobhán is a Dublin-based actor, writer and theatre maker; since receiving a BA in Acting from The Lir Academy in 2018, Siobhán has worked consistently across various artistic sectors. Recent Theatre credits include the role of Maire in a site specific production of TRANSLATIONS directed by Connall Morrison for Arts Over Borders/Friel Days.

She recently finished on the 2024 production of THE VALLEY OF THE SQUINTING WINDOWS, where she played the role of Rebecca Kerr for the Gaiety Theatre.

Screen credits include the role of Cadlín in VIKINGS: VALHALLA for Netflix/MGM, Sal in QUICKSAND directed by Pollyanna McIntosh, Tar in DIRTY TALK directed by Eva Wyse, Jill in FAKING IT directed by Roisin Dunk, Sarah in HOLIDAY HOME directed by Conor Kind, and Sarah in POLAROID directed by Richard Harvey.

On stage, she appeared in HOME directed by Andrea Ainsworth for the Abbey Theatre, SHORT STORIES & LONG TAILS directed by Andy Crook for Longford County Council, MADE FROM PAPER directed by Nessa Matthews for Scene & Heard, THE VALLEY OF THE SQUINTING WINDOWS directed by Michael Scott for Dublin City Theatre, KISSING THE WITCH and TRAVESTY for Corps Ensemble, MOOP and STOP/OVER for Dublin Fringe Festival.

In 2022, Siobhán had her own short film QUICKSAND produced by Carbonated Comet and directed by Pollyanna McIntosh. It is currently in post-production. Siobhán is presently working on a screen adaptation of Lorna Byrne's best-selling book "Angels in My Hair" which is set to begin production in December 2022.
